Our young friend Linn Haw has decided to give up the practice of law and enter the ministry of the Southern Methodist Church, and will leave for Southwest Missouri in a few weeks to begin preaching. His older brother, Marvin Haw, after graduating in law made a similar decision, and is now one of the most popular preachers of that church. We wish for Linn a like success in the high calling he has chosen.

We have received some complaint from subscribers at Bonne Terre that THE TIMES frequently does not reach there until Saturday. That ought not to be, for the packages of papers for Bonne Terre and for all towns along the M. R. & B. T. railway are delivered at the Post-Office in Farmington before ten o'clock every Friday morning, are put in a separate pouch for that road to be transferred from the Illinois Southern at Elvins, and leave here at 10:48. They ought to reach their destination the same afternoon. The fault must lie between the mail clerk on the Illinois Southern and the mail clerk on the M. R. & B. T.

Death of Mrs. Wm. S. Barry
Died, at her home west of DeLassus on Thursday, May 31, 1906, Frances I. Barry (nee Parks), wife of Judge Wm. S. Barry, aged 71 years, three months and ten days. Judge and Mrs. Barry had been married nearly fifty years, and to this union were born six children. One son died when a child; her husband and five children, Wilson, John, Mrs. Wm. Huff, Mrs. H. S. Whitener and Mrs. G. B. Gale, remain to mourn the loss of a kind loving wife and mother. Mrs. Barry was a faithful, consistent member of Pendleton Baptist Church for more than fifty years. She was a true helpmeet to her husband, and her beautiful life and earnest and cheerful work for her Master endeared her to all who knew her. She rests with Him whom she served, and her memory is blessed. The sympathy of a host of friends will be with the sorrowing family. The funeral services were conducted by Revs. R. C. Martin and W. M. Huff, and on Saturday, May 24, her body was laid away in the old Pendleton cemetery.

COL. JACK SMITH DEAD.

Veteran of Two Wars, Crossed the Plains in '49, Was Shipwrecked and Closed Eventful Life at Age of 78.

Colonel John J. Smith died at his home in Farmington last Sunday, June 3, 1906, aged 77 years, 7 months and 14 days. The Friday previous he was out on the streets apparently as well as usual, and on Wednesday participated in the exercises of Memorial Day. His death was the result of some complication of the bowels.

The life of Colonel Jack Smith, as he was familiarly known, was an eventful one. Born in Tennessee, October 28, 1828, he came to Missouri when a mere boy, and in 1846, at the age of 18 years enlisted as a soldier in the war with Mexico. He was a member of Company D (Captain Jones), Second Missouri Volunteers, under General Sterling Price. He served with marked bravery throughout the war, returning at its close to Missouri.

In 1849 he made the overland trip across the plains to California, and remained there until the latter part of 1851, when he embarked home on a ship. While rounding Cape Horn on Christmas day of that year the ship was wrecked in a storm within a mile of a small barren island about 500 miles off the cape. The crew and passengers, numbering about forty-five, succeeded in reaching the island, and saved enough of the canvas and wreckage of the ship to provide a little shelter. Next day the captain of the vessel rigged up a life boat with sail and taking six of the crew, launched forth, sailing in the direction of Cape Horn, hoping to hail some passing vessel, but a storm swept over the island the following day, and it is supposed that they were caught in the squall and lost, for they were never heard of afterwards. Those left on the island subsisted on what little stores and water they saved from the ship, and on gull's eggs and such shell fish as they could gather. They were on the island 38 days, and about half their number died from exposure and insufficient food. When hope had almost forsaken the survivors, the sails of a ship that had been blown out of its course was spied, and they succeeded in hailing it. They were taken on board and brought to New Orleans, and Col. Smith came on from there to Missouri.

In June, 1854, he was married to

Miss Abbie Smith, who with three sons and one daughter survive him. In 1861 he raised a company of cavalry under the call of Governor Claiborne Jackson and enlisted under General Jeff Thompson. After the disbandment of Thompson's brigade he went east of the river, served as major in a regiment under General Forrest, afterwards becoming colonel of the regiment to which he was attached and serving throughout that hard and unhappy struggle to the close of the war.

After the war he bought a small plantation near Water Valley, Miss., where he remained with his family about six years, thence returning to Missouri and locating in Mississippi county, where he lived up to 1884, in which year, leaving his family here, he went to California. He returned from there in 1898 and located with his family in Farmington, where he spent the remainder of his life.

About seven years ago he united with the Southern Methodist Church, and lived a consistent Christian up to the time of his death. He was a good, honorable, upright man in all his dealings with his fellowmen, genial and sociable in manner, and enjoyed the good will and esteem of all who knew him. He was a staunch and faithful friend, and it is said by those who knew him under conditions which tried men's souls, that he didn't know what fear was.

Besides his aged wife, he leaves three sons and one daughter—Eugene Smith of Charleston, Mrs. Ella Green of Fredricktown, Achilles Smith of California, and Richard M. Smith of St. Louis; one brother, Stephen Smith of this county and two sisters, together with several grandchildren, who have the sympathy of many friends in their sorrow.

The funeral took place from the residence Monday afternoon, Rev. C. F. Blackburn, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, conducting the services. His casket was borne to the Masonic Cemetery by six Confederate and six Federal veterans, relieving each other alternately. The pall bearers were: Confederate—J. M. Morris, Wm. S. Miller, J. M. Fry, Jasper N. Burks, William Quires and T. D. Fisher; Federal—W. J. Alexander, Thomas Depper, D. J. Doughty, T. T. Dalton, W. A. Kennedy and L. J. Cundiff.

After a short solemn service at the grave, the body was consigned to the earth to await the sound of the reveille that will call him to join the heavenly hosts.

FARMINGTON KEEPS ITS PENNANT FLYING.

Famous Niagaras of St. Louis Unable to Secure a Hit Off Harry Patton—Score 9 to 0.

Farmington won its sixth straight game last Sunday by defeating the Niagaras of St. Louis 9 to 0. Harry Patton had everything a pitcher needs and the Niagaras went down in one-two-three order. St. Louis failed to secure a hit, while only twenty-nine men faced Patton. Only one ball was knocked to the outfield by the Niagaras, and, as usual, Barney Blue was there, getting it after a hard run and catching it while running with the ball. It was a fine catch. Getz, the Niagaras' left fielder, accepted a couple of very hard chances and Sieving also caught a difficult fly. There was nothing to the game but Patton, and when St. Louis was at bat it was "walk up and take your medicine." The locals had their batting clothes on and clouted the ball for keeps, making twelve safeties, three of which were doubles.

Next Sunday Farmington will play a very strong team, which should be able to give them a close game. Everybody who loves baseball should come out and see Farmington "do 'em up." The official score:

Moothart Defeats Carleton.
Moothart Commercial College won the high school and college championship of the county by defeating Carleton College at Woodland Park last Friday by the score of 16 to 7. The game was close up to the eighth inning, when the Commercial College boys fell on Hopkins' shoots and bombarded them all over the lot, making nine runs in this inning. Eversole, Carleton's left fielder, made some fine running catches, and Murphy of the Commercial hit the ball like a veteran. The game was well played throughout except in the eighth, when Carleton went to pieces. Batteries—Commercial College, Weile and Asbury; Carleton, Hopkins and Hunt.

The Boston Bloomers will play here next Thursday June 14th. They have received very good notices from the papers where they have played, both for their good sport and proper behavior. The minister of the Methodist church of an Illinois town where they played a game endorsed them as being perfect ladies and worthy of patronage. 1,000 people witnessed the game at Carthersville, and the Bloomers won by the score of 19 to 0.

A crowd of young people went over to Bonne Terre to the street fair Wednesday evening. Besides visiting the different attractions they were shown through the works. Those who made the trip were Linn Clardy with Miss Joseph Moore of St. Louis, Dr. Frank Weber with Miss Gladys Rozier, Walter Morris and Miss Bidez and Vernon Doss and Miss Beth Halie.

A Southeast Missouri Band Association has been arranged with Syd Ollar of Bloomfield as president and Del Longear of Caruthersville as secretary. It is proposed to hold an annual meeting in some Southeast town soon, and all bands are requested to correspond with either the president or secretary.

The time for putting in door and window screens is at hand. Tetley-Klein Lumber Co. have a fine supply and will make it to your interest to get your screens from them. Don't buy before seeing them.
